Clinical practice, digital know-how and soft skills

Summer Schools run for one week between June and September in Asia (Delhi, India), Europe (Schaan (Liechtenstein), Warsaw, Berlin, Vienna, London and Lisbon) as well as in Central and South America (São Paulo, Mexico City and Bogotá). The program is designed to prepare students for treating their first patients and covers clinical step from taking a patient's medical history to carrying out treatment – with a particular focus on topics that are often not part of academic curricula. Key highlights include digital dentistry, esthetics and soft skills. Each day combines full-day workshops, expert talks and social activities. In selected locations, the Ivoclar Summer School runs in partnership with leading institutions, including Malo Clinic in Lisbon and King's College in London.

Omar Burhan, participant of the 2025 Summer School in London, says: “This week gave me more than knowledge – it gave me clarity, inspiration, and a network of peers who share the same passion. Dentistry is about precision, compassion, and lifelong learning. After these five days, I feel ready to embrace all of it.”

Dental expertise in Asia, Europe and Latin America

The Summer School is aimed at dental students who have already completed the preclinical phase of their studies, whether on phantom heads or simulated systems, and are comfortable with the practical basics, such as changing drills and placing matrix bands. The course fee for the 2026 Summer School is € 290, which covers five days of training, all workshop materials and equipment, hand-outs, lunch, coffee breaks and a group evening event. Travel, visa (if required) and accommodation must be arranged and paid for by the participants themselves.
